“ Pam, I am very sorry about the loss of your Mother. She was a kind person. She gave me her recipe for pie and it was delicious. Now with her passing, I will cherish that recipe. My thought and prayers are with you. Kelley Redd-Otte

“ Lois was always willing to help me out in arranging things for our church rummage sales. Of course then she would turn around and buy things for her grandchildren or daughters. After doing all that she would come in the next day with a cake for the workers. She was truly a treasure and I considered her a special friend. She will be a joy for all those in heaven.

“ This just breaks my heart. Lois and Jean were two of my favorite patrons when I started working at the library. Lois will certainly be missed - she was just a fantastic person and I'm sorry that I won't have the opportunity to see her check out a big pile of books again. The family is in my thoughts and prayers.

“ Aunt Lois was always helping someone out whether it was for church and for a family member she would take my mother and my grandmother to the store when they were both living and she visited my mother at the nursing home for several years twice a week and took her to activities to keep my mom active instead of her just laying in bed all day long she was a wonderful person that this world needs more people like her, because she cared for everyone . Heaven has a new angel.

“ Lois and Dick were the first to welcome us when Pat and I moved to the neighborhood - right across the street. We couldn't have been in a better neighborhood or have had better neighbors. They were always available to chat, tell a funny story, lend a tool. When I had brain surgery, Lois came over and brought the biggest, most delicious dessert I have ever had. She thought that would cheer me up (she was right).

In later years, her pride in her growing family was evident. Cheerful always, she would tell me the antics of her great grandsons. When my grandchildren would visit, Lois would see them outside, and she would be grinning from ear to ear. In fact, at Halloween Lois brought over some treats and said to give them to our grandkids.

Lois was a treasure to everyone. She and Dick meant the world to each other. My faith says they are together again. She was a jewel. Judy Doyle
