“ Brad was a childhood friend were many of us grew up in the bottom that they called Angle Swomp we all would get together n hang out n a lot of times Brad n some others would come to my parents house my mother used to say that they all were her second set of kids..Brad n all of use would have a great time together all the times some times as kids we would do things that we shouldn't nothing really bad but when mom would fine out she would preach to us (you all are good kids n you know better) That was the good ole days.As we all got older we went our own way but a few years ago I ran in to Brad n Tina they came out to my home to see some of my family we talked n had a very nice time ,the a few times after that Brad would come out to have some one to talk to so my Husband n I would set n talk to Brad he even spent a couple nights with us. Yes Brad was still grieving over his son n had some problems that he just wanted to talk with a old friend about it... lam so glad that my Husband n I were there for him.. I did get to see Brad a couple of times while he was ill wish I could of had more time with him...Brad You Are Going To Missed By A Lot Of Old Friends n New Ones n Family .. But I Will Always Remember The Good Times We Had .. Brad RIP with your Son ,Mom ,Rick,n any other Family They Are Waiting With Open Arms.. You will always be in my Heart..

“ Bradley Miller Sr.
September 21, 1965- May 29, 2016

We were teenagers when we first met. we really didn't know what love meant yet.

you dazzled me with your flirtatious words it wasn't long before we became like 2 love birds we certainly had our troubled days and our marriage ended in a dark haze.

you gave me my most cherished joy to be a mommy to a girl and a boy

Lachawn Miller and Bradley Miller jr although our marriage failed the test I have only good memories, just forget the rest we were so young and put to the test as young parents we did what we knew as our best the loss of Bradley would take it's toll put us both in a downward spiral you turned to drugs, I turned to booze who knew we had so much to loose in the midst of it all was this little girl she didn't loose just a brother, she lost her whole world her parents were grieving the loss of their son this poor little child was lost with no one she turned to her piers and soon would get high lost in this world and just she wanted to die her brother was gone, her parents a mess how could she cope with all this loneliness she won the battle of being on drugs only to re-enter the world of the thugs her ever so kind and loving heart lead her back down to the world she was once able to part at the time she left the reason unclear then the news came that you needed her near

I know she and you didn't always agree the two of you are so much alike anyone can see *bi-polar disorder is beyond comprehension it affects everyone with no intention those who carry it have no control those who witness it, their peace it has been stole it's a disease that takes over ones being the behavior is so disbelieving how can one love and yet be so mean one never knows unless you have seen it tortures you from the inside out you want to love but all you do is shout you long to be heard but no one will listen but on a good day your eye sparks with a glisten one day of good erases ten bad because we know the good heart you had I forgive you Brad for all that you've done now go Rest In Peace with our son it's been 15 years since Bradley left he lived as long as he has been laid to rest say hello and kiss his sweet face for me you can breathe easy now and you are free I'll do my best to love and care for Lachawn while you rest easy from a place way beyond Your sister told me with God you made peace I'm glad the demons have finally ceased.

You were a very hard person to love but not for the good Lord above he knew why you had a troubled heart only God knows what really tore you apart life as a child wasn't easy for you your mom did the very best she could do I'm sure your picture of this life is now clear and in my heart I will hold you forever near... nobody will ever take your place I look at our daughter and I see your face if you stand with Jesus as I'm told you are please send down some peace from Heaven afar I'm not the girl that you once knew I trust in the Lord and my life is* brand new the last time we spoke this I told you forgive whoever has your heart scorn so that you too may be reborn God had a plan for everyone here if we live by his word it will one day be clear love one another as Jesus once said let go of the hate and let it be dead the words on this post come straight from my heart please Lord let this family heal and not part we need one another to see this thing through
