“ Not a day goes by, that I don't think of you! Our oldest is a Senior this year, and will be going off to college soon. Our youngest is a star in the fandom world. I'm sure you are so proud to see their accomplishments, from the biggest seat in the world! I still can't believe it will be 6 years since you went home to be with the lord. Life has thrown some curve balls, since you've been gone, but we will get through this. Our next chapter, will be better than ever! Love always Robin ❤️

“ I had no idea until now that dan had died. My heart goes out to his wife and kids and family. I was good friends with him in high school and saw him occasionaly after that. He was always making me laugh and was a really good guy. He will be missed.

“ I remember the day he was born and DR. Allen handed this little bundle to Johnny and James and said this is your baby. and the smiles on there little faces said it all. They loved him from that very first beat of his heart and even after the last beat and forever more. He is there brother. and there is a bound there that even death will never break.

“ Dan will be so missed. He was by the shop last Wednesday and couldn't wait to show me pics of his new boat and of course always the newest pics of the girls. But I'll mostly remember when he and Scott were in High School and the mischief those two would get into. Coming home and Scott saying Hi Mom and Dan saying Hi Mom!! RIP!

“ Dan was a great employee- but that is nothing compared to the "man" that he really was. I have got to know him over the years but oddly just really got to really "know" him over the last few weeks on our adventures in WV back roads. After spending 6-7 hours a day in a truck an not a minute of silence goes bye makes the day go fast but it really lets you know a person. I do know this- he lived his life for his family and friends. There was nothing more important than Robin and the girls. So the best I can come up with is dont cry its over- smile and laugh becuase "he" happened...
