“ What a great man John was. Loved by many. Him and Charlotte had a good thing going for many years. I think their marriage was what many people would want for themselves. Laughs love, friendship, fishing buddies. They shared the same love and passion for country music. John was a very good guitar player to. He also loved his little dogs. His buddies. Endless hours making their fantastic gardens grow together. John's gardens were second to NONE. He told me stories about years past when I was young. It was cool listening to him talk. He was really smart. Always told me the weather forecast and was mostly right on. If you knew John then you know he was a survivor. He would get it done. I'm proud to say John was and will always be part of my family. R.I.P. my friend.
