You battled a infection last february and won - I wish you would have went to get checked out a month earlier when I asked if you wanted to do that-the hospital didnt have this under control on Jan 1 when you came home and how I wish you would have went to another hospital-you could have got much more extensive care and they would have been on their game. your life was cut too short and their was more cancer treatments and they may have been like the pills that worked a long time and gave us hope!
