“ I was blessed. I was witness to the start of it all...the epic love between Jessica Morgan and Tim Paul. One boy with a sparkle in his blue eye and one girl with a love so deep within her heart for him that it began the first time she had ever seen the sparkle. The most incredible legacy a man can leave behind are the children that contain that special kind of magic that he possessed that continues within their hearts and the small things they do everyday that will always be the bittersweet reminder of the dad that loved them so much. I thank the Lord for giving Jessica a man to love like that. I thank the Lord for the strength and perserverance that He will give her to be the woman that many women would struggle to be. We are praying and will continue to pray for Tim's family. Our deepest love and sympathy go out to each one of you.
